A PANIC IN STOCKS.

Wall Street Demoralized by the Drop in Prices.

Alarming Advices from Europe the Chief Cause.

Scarcity of Gold Affects the Foreign Money Market.

Jay Gould Thinks Prices Have Gone Low Enough.

The Evening Post's Opinion.

NEW YORK, November 10.—The Evening Post's financial article says: "The panic in the stock market continued this morning in about the same temper as on Friday and Saturday, the declines ranging from 1 to 6 points in the first fifteen minutes of business. Some very astute people regarded it as significant that Manhattan Elevated and Western Union were important factors in the decrease, leading all other securities. Whether holders' fears of Wanamaker, who has a scheme for a postal telegraph in opposition to the Western Union, had any connection with the manipulation of Western Union, which was quite apparent, it was impossible to say, but it looked as though it had. Nevertheless the panic recovered fresh impetus from London this morning. All stocks opened there ¼ to 1½ lower than they closed here Saturday, the latter Union Pacific. Money was higher in London at noon, and all the good banks of Europe appear to be grabbing for the diminished supply of gold, some of which has gone to Spain and South America.

The Day on Wall Street.

NEW YORK, November 10.—Money on call light, ranging from 6 to 9 per cent, last loan 6, closed at 6; prime mercantile paper 6 to 8. The stock market to-day continued the rapid and heavy decline of the latter part of last week, and for a time this morning it looked more like a panic than at any previous time since the downward movement began. As remarked by a prominent western manipulator of stocks and other speculative commodities, it was only a rich man's pace, and thus far the slump in prices, which has reached some 15 per cent in some cases, has been accompanied by a complete freedom from failure upon the street, emphasizing the fact that not for a long time have stocks been so held to any extent upon the street in brokers' offices on margins.

To-day, however, the excitement, which was of the suppressed order and almost entirely free from the usual noise which has marked the transactions of business on the stock exchange at times, was sufficient to cause the death of one of the leading men of the exchange upon the floor at about noon. The gentleman was Mr. James Struthers. Such an event would in usual times have been sufficient to have caused the closing of the exchange at once, but the magnitude of the interests which would have been endangered by such a course forbade it, and after a half an hour's interruption of the business, trading was resumed upon the floor.

The Gould party are credited to-day with being large purchasers. There were some hopes that the liquidation had reached its limit last week, after the Bank of England had raised its rate of discount on Friday, but the early advices from London this morning were of the most discouraging character, and prices of all kinds of security there were materially lower, while American stocks were from one to two per cent lower than Saturday's closing here.

Reasons for the Decline.

NEW YORK, November 10.—The Post says: On June 19th the three greatest banks of England, France, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Netherlands and Belgium held an aggregate of 119,913,775 pounds of gold. On November 6th they held only 106,443,910, a decrease of 13,469,865 pounds, or over $67,000,000. This decrease of gold has been almost entirely in the three great banks of England, France and Germany, viz: Bank of England, over 2,000,000 pounds; Bank of France nearly 5,000,000 pounds; and Bank of Germany, nearly 7,000,000 pounds. Where this vast amount of money has gone is difficult to say, but a large amount of money has gone to South America.

Just now the strain upon the Bank of England for further amounts to go there and to Spain to support the credit of English enterprises in those countries is the cause of the advance in the Bank of England's rate on Friday. The object in raising the rate, of course, is to make the rate of interest so high in London that it will discourage speculators from borrowing gold or money to send out of the country; and also on the other hand, to draw money in gold from all other countries where rates of interest are lower than in London. The fact that money has been much lower in Paris for some months past than in London has encouraged the belief that gold could be drawn from there to London; but the Bank of France, which now holds 1,190,000,000 francs of gold, or say $239,000,000, against 1,216,700,000 francs, or $243,000,000 at the end of June, refuses to sell any more gold or part with it in loans or any other way. The borrower thus can get no specie but silver, of which the Bank of France holds about $260,000,000.

In New York the rates of interest offered for money are still too much above those of London to permit the export of any gold to London. Exchange in this market is still from two to three points below the gold exporting point, and is likely to stay so. It is this situation in London, and with it the prospect that the Bank of England will be obliged to raise the rates of discount still higher, until the rates of interest in London are above those in New York in order to compel the exports of gold from here, that is obliging all the London and English speculators in stocks to sell out. It is this that has brought us an almost constant stream of stocks from London during October. The rates of exchange, however, in this market do not show that any large amount of money is being remitted for stocks sold for London account and this causes it to appear that London has disposed of so much of American stocks that there can't be many more to come.

As recorded above, the rate of exchange fails to show any evidence of large remittances for stocks sold on London account, and the presumption is at least admissable that there has been less selling by London than is currently reported. The panic seems to continue from its own efforts, by the continual exhaustion of the margins of successive sets of speculators in an extremely narrow market, where the whole number of speculators is very much smaller than ever before. Every one admits that stocks look extraordinarily cheap but the very fact that they have declined so much keeps everybody looking for failures as the result. In view of this and continued high rates for money scares every buyer out as soon as he makes a little loss. Nobody can give any more tangible reasons for the great decline than these.

Alarm in London.

LONDON, November 10.—On the stock exchange to-day the feeling of alarm and apprehension as to the results of the coming settlement became intense. Every kind of security was freely sold. American railroads were panicky and the depression was especially marked in dealings in the street. On cable advices reporting quotations in New York, heavy sales were made here. The leading provincial exchanges show a rapid increase of distrust. The fall in American railroads was from 1½ to 5. The future of the gold movement is obscure. The principal financial houses are in Paris trying to induce the Bank of France to assist English firms to complete an engagement to deliver 500,000 pounds in gold in Madrid during the week. If the Bank of France accedes its action will tend to avert an increase of the Bank of England's rate of discount and to ease the settlement.

Gould Interviewed.

NEW YORK, November 10.—Jay Gould was asked this afternoon to give his views in regard to the great fall of prices in Wall street. Gould said: "There is, of course, as any one can see by looking at the prices, a very great depression. But there is no doubt the market would have righted itself if the trouble in London had not come up. How much farther things will go I do not know. I only know any one who has the courage to buy now and the patience to wait will make money. So far as I know anything about the different properties, especially those I am interested in, they are all right. There is no reason for the present low prices. I suppose six months from now we shall look back upon these prices and, comparing them, will say how ridiculously low they were. History repeats itself. I have had within the last few days very good evidence of a large amount of money going into Wall street to buy stocks, principally not on margins, but outright. This amount is likely to increase, and when it gets so that buyers are more numerous than sellers the market will turn. Railroads are all doing very well. A large movement of freight is now going on, carried at better rates. All roads have a better understanding with each other than for many years."

To Relieve the Market.

WASHINGTON, November 10.—Secretary Windom was kept fully advised of the condition of the money market to-day, but did not feel called on to take any action in the matter beyond the purchase of all the silver bullion that was offered the department. The director of the mint said this was done for the relief of the market. The available cash balance will be used principally in the redemption of the 4½ per cent loan. The secretary's offer of October 9, to redeem this class of bonds on presentation at par with interest to maturity, September 1, '91, is still open. The bonds are coming in very slowly, however, and the total redemptions to-day are less than $5,000,000.

Inspection of Cattle.

ST. LOUIS, November 10.—This morning the laws in reference to the inspection of live stock intended for export go into effect, said W. L. Lane, of Cheyenne, Wyo., who is largely interested in Colorado and Wyoming ranches; and it is anticipated that it will be of great benefit, not only to cattle breeders, but also to those who raise sheep and hogs. For the last seven years there has been a continued fight made by Europe against the admission of American meat products on the ground that they were diseased; but it was not until about four years ago, when the laws were passed that seriously hampered our trade with transatlantic countries. The result of the inspection laws will be not only that the shipments of American beef will be increased at least 500 per cent, but also the breeders will be released from the bondage in which they have been held by the dressed beef men. At present the big four and their allies control the market and make what rates they please, as there is practically no opposition, but when English buyers come in there will be competition and we can obtain fair rates. This will not increase the price to consumers, as the latter now pay more than they did when cattle were 80 per cent higher. It will, however, cut down the profits of the dressed beef men. There is only one objection to the law, and that is that there are not nearly enough inspection points. Instead of six or eight there ought to be at least thirty. Under the present system the stock yard owners can impose upon shippers, as they are given a practical monopoly. But this fault can be remedied and the outlook for cattlemen and farmers who raise stock has not for years been so bright as it is now. To-day commences a new era.

Bathed in Molten Metal.

DENVER, November 10. John Seibling, a pot puller at the Pueblo smelter, was so badly roasted last night that he will die. Seibling pulled a pot partially out, left it standing, and went for another. In backing out he tumbled and fell backwards into the first pot, sitting squarely down in it. He threw back his hands to save himself, and they, too, were submerged to the elbow in the molten metal. To add to the horror of the situation, his clothing immediately caught fire. Fellow-workmen doused the man with water, and put out the flames. His sufferings were terrible. From his shoulders to his knees not a particle of skin remains. To-night he is lying at the hospital in a precarious condition. He is 25 years of age and has a family in Sweden. The poor fellow is suffering the most intense agony. His clothes were all burned off and his flesh and skin hung in shreds from his body. None but the doctor could stay long in his presence without feeling faint and sick from the odor of burned flesh.

Took His Own Life.

BOSTON, November 10.—Westley P. Balch, the well known horseman, committed suicide this afternoon by shooting himself with a revolver in his office in the Commonwealth building. Financial difficulties caused the act.

THREE SENATORSHIPS.

Error in Footings Changes the Situation in Illinois.

Palmer Believed to be Sure of the U. S. Senatorship.

South Dakota's Legislature Republican on Joint Ballot.

It is Predicted Chas. A. Dana Will Succeed Evarts.

An Error Discovered.

CHICAGO, November 10.—An error has been discovered in footing up the returns of this congressional district, and now it appears that Kinney, the democratic candidate for representative, was elected, instead of Hoppin, the republican, as reported. Owing to the fact that the two parties have been thought to be a tie in the legislature, this discovery is of considerable importance. If the official count verifies the election of Kinney, the democrats will have 101 votes in the assembly and the republicans but 100, thus making the election of John M. Palmer to the United States senate the next thing to a certainty.

South Dakota's Legislature.

HURON, S. D., November 10.—In the senate in the new legislature the republicans have elected enough to make a majority of three over all opposition in that body, there being 24 republicans to 21 democrats and independents. In the house there will be a tie vote if the democrats and independents unite against the republicans. There are three contests which are believed to be favorable to the republicans. This would give them a majority on joint ballot and insure the election of Senator Moody to succeed himself.

Dana for Senator.

CHICAGO, November 10.—The Tribune in a leading editorial predicts that Chas. A. Dana, of the New York Sun, will be chosen senator to succeed Mr. Evarts.

Minister Lincoln in Washington.

WASHINGTON, November 10.—Hon. Robt. T. Lincoln, minister to England, reached this city this morning from Chicago. He called on Secretary Proctor at the war department and held a quiet reception among his old official friends. He appears to be in the best of health. To an Associated Press reporter he said: "Stories to the effect that I intend to resign my post are absolutely false; I am here on leave of absence and I shall remain for about forty or fifty days, after which I shall go back to England and resume work." He afterward visited the state department and made a brief call on Secretary Blaine.

Minister Lincoln called at the White house this afternoon and had a pleasant interview with the president, in the course of which he said he would leave for Chicago this evening and expected to remain there until his return to London about the end of December.

A Pueblo Scandal.

PUEBLO, November 10.—The names of W. A. Jimeson and Mrs. Jimeson and Tom Taylor are on every one's lips to-night. Four years ago 15 conductors on the Rio Grande were laid off by a change in the management, which rendered their services unnecessary. Among them was W. A. Jimeson. Jimeson bade his wife and four-year-old girl good bye and went to Texas to secure work. Soon after he left Mrs. Jimeson became very friendly with Tom Taylor, superintendent of bridges and buildings of the Denver and Rio Grande. She obtained a deed to their home on Abriendo avenue mortgaged the property for $1500 and left with Taylor on a trip to the northwest, visiting Seattle, Tacoma and other places, returning after a few months. Jimeson heard of it and returned with the intention of shooting the man who had betrayed him. He did not find him and the affair broke up the family. Jimeson returned to Texas and the relations between Taylor and the woman continued.

Last Saturday Jimeson was killed at Clarendon, Tex., by the cars, and his body brought here for burial and was taken charge of by the order of Railroad Conductors and the Masonic fraternity. The guilty wife asked that the body be taken to her house, but it was refused. After much pleading with one of the leading Masons the woman was given an order on the undertakers for the body, which she desired to have remain in her house but one night. The undertakers got the corpse and were half way to Mrs. Jimeson's house when the conductors found out what was going on and by quick work stopped the hearse and ordered it back. After some parleying the hearse turned around and again placed the coffin in the Masonic hall.

When the woman found this out she vowed that she would replevin the body. Mr. Jimeson carried $2,500 insurance with the Order of Railway Conductors and $5,000 with the Masons. When the first trouble occurred he changed the papers from his wife to his daughter. By holding the body of the deceased in her house over night she would get control of this money. The two societies swore that the money shall only go to the child when she becomes of age, and, if she replevins the body they will swear out a warrant charging her with adultery.

Funds for Ireland.

NEW YORK, November 10. Rarely has the Metropolitan opera house held such an audience as it did to-night when the Irish societies of the city of New York gave a public reception to the Irish representatives, Messrs O'Connor, O'Brien, Dillon, Sullivan, Harrington and Gill. There were about 4000 people in the house. Three thousand two hundred were seated and the remaining 800 were on the platform and were standing around the hall. Gov. Hill introduced John Dillon, who was welcomed with the wildest applause. He was listened to throughout with the greatest interest. He was followed by O'Brien and O'Connor. Thirty seven thousand dollars was raised.

Agricultural Returns.

WASHINGTON, November 10.—November returns to the department of agriculture on the yield per acre make the average for corn 19.9 bushels, potatoes 57.5, buckwheat 14.5, hay 1.2 tons, tobacco 718 pounds. The corn crop marks the smallest yield reported except that of '81, which was 18.6 bushels. It is 83 per cent of the average of the last ten years, and only 78 per cent of last year's crop. The decline of the last decade is not due to impairment of fertility, but unfavorable meteorological influences. The average rate of yield of potatoes is 57.5 bushels. The condition of the crop in October was lower than any report of previous crop except in '87, being 61.7 against 61.5 when the rate of yield was 50.9 bushels. It imports scarcity and warrants high prices. The yield of hay is large as a rule throughout the country. The cane sugar crop will be large and sugar beets have done well west of the Missouri, indicating a probably rapid development of the sugar industry.

Fifty Years in Prison.

LANGRY, MO., November 10.—Lew Griffith, who shot and afterwards brutally mutilated the body of Elyra Owensby, a colored woman employed by his father at Kearney, Mo., on September 1st last, was sentenced to-day by Judge Sandusky to fifty years in the penitentiary. The boy is undoubtedly of weak mind which fact has saved him from the gallows. At no time has he appeared to realize his crime or to be fearful of its results.

CASTLE HALL DEDICATED

Grand Lodge Officers Formally Dedicate the K. of P. Hall.

Perhaps in no age or land of the world have secret societies flourished as they do to-day in America, especially the western portion of it. Reference is made of course to secret orders having a benevolent basis. Among the young secret orders which have gained a strong foothold in America in a very short period of time perhaps the most remarkable is the order which amplifies friendship, charity and benevolence. It is but a quarter of a century since the founding of the Knights of Pythias, and to-day it has lodges in nearly every city of importance in the country, and its membership is fast climbing up the hundreds of thousands.

Myrtle lodge, K. of P., No. 34, was instituted in this city February 16, 1887, with a membership of 35. Its growth has been steady and to-day numbers over 100 members, mostly recruited from the young, active business men of the city. Since its organization Myrtle lodge has been without a home of its own, subletting its lodge room from other societies more fortunate. Upon the completion of the Durkee block the lodge secured a lease of the third floor of the building and has since been busily at work fixing it up. Expense and labor have not been spared in the work and the result is to give the society one of the best lodge homes in the state. The hall was officially dedicated last night by the grand lodge officers of the state, and followed immediately by a grand ball.

The ceremony of installation began shortly after 8 o'clock in the lodge room, and at that hour the large room was filled with the Knights and invited guests, fully 300 being present. Dr. W. L. Bartlett, chancellor commander of the lodge, and all lodge officers were in their places when the hour struck. The master-at-arms announced the approach of the grand officers, this portion of the ceremony being particularly impressive. They were admitted and assumed their station. The grand prelate offered a prayer, the opening ode was sung and grand officers went through the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the ritual usual in dedicating a castle hall. The grand officers present were: Grand Vice Chancellor J. K. Miller of Colorado Springs, Grand Prelate T. H. Devine of Pueblo, Grand Master-at-Arms Ralph Talbott of Denver, and members of Myrtle Lodge assisted in the other grand lodge offices.

Immediately after the ceremony Hon. Ralph Talbott, of Denver, was called upon for an address, the topic being assigned by the G. V. C. as "The Ladies". Mr. Talbott spoke for about fifteen minutes, making some very witty remarks about being assigned to speak on a subject that he had always led his family to believe that he knew nothing about, etc. Being a "Missourian" by birth Mr. Talbott felt free to make a few pleasant remarks about people hailing from there. Before concluding his remarks he referred to the countless blessings bestowed during each year by secret societies.

At the conclusion of the exercises in the lodge room the company assembled in the grand ball room, and participated in dancing until a late hour. The ball room had been handsomely decorated with flowers, and hung with bunting in red, yellow and blue, the colors of the order. On the stage were banked flowers, completely concealing Metz's orchestra, which furnished delightful music throughout the evening. A programme of twenty numbers was danced. The attendance was probably the largest ever seen at a like gathering in this city. Fifty-two couples joined in the grand march and as many more were seated in the room. An elegant lunch was served by Gough, the popular caterer, during the evening. The affair was a very great success throughout and very creditable to the members of the lodge.

The new quarters are very complete in every respect. Upon reaching the top landing and leaving the hallway one enters a large vestibule or ante room, as yet unfurnished. To the right of this is a reception room nicely furnished with easy chairs, rugs, etc. Leading from the ante room one enters the lodge room proper. This is 40x42 feet, with high ceiling, a very handsome room. Connected with this are four rooms for the storage of paraphernalia. The lodge rooms was decorated by Cahl & Co., and consisted of tinted walls and ceilings with heavy frescoed border. The walls are in light buff and the ceiling in blue. The floor is handsomely carpeted with Brussels, supplied by Wilbur & Wolf, the prevailing colors harmonizing with the tints on the ceiling and walls. The room is brilliantly lighted with a chandelier of six gas and six electric light jets in the centre and numerous side lights. The side lights are shaded with the lodge colors, and when lighted the room is very beautiful, the colors harmonizing and blending perfectly. All the furniture was supplied by the Franklin Furniture company and is of antique oak with car plush, and includes not only the official furniture, but handsome settees, chairs, etc. On the walls are hung numerous handsome pictures, two of them presented by Mr and Mrs Q. J. Wallington and one the work of Mr. [illegible]. In the center of the room rests a handsome Bible, a present from the ladies of Colorado Springs.

"O, for a Lodge in some vast wilderness!"

The New York Star has the following story:

The boss of an Eighth avenue barber shop was conversing in English with a customer when he broke off suddenly and began talking in German. A third gentleman as a sort of playful rebuke remarked, "Don't you know that it is impolite to converse in a language that is not understood by all present?" "What!" said the barber, "don't you understand German?" "No," said the other. "Well," was the response, "you ought to; you've been in this country long enough."

The story is all the more pertinent since the election of the democratic candidate in Wisconsin.

The defeat of the friends of the Bennett law in Wisconsin should not be dis[illegible] they have been making has too much merit in it to allow any defeat to lessen the zeal of those who are fighting for the public school. Two or three defeats more may emphasize this question sufficiently, so that the people will be aroused. What we want to decide is whether we are going to have this country for Americans, or divide it up between the Germans, the Italians, the Irish, and the Poles.

The report comes that Payson is defeated. This will make the leaders of the new house very lonely. Reed, Lodge, Henderson and Hitt seem to be the only prominent ones returned. Henderson escaped the avalanche in Iowa, because he took some care in guarding his constituents. When the duty on glass chimneys was before the house, Mr Henderson asked why the duty was raised; if it was because chimneys were being brought in from abroad? Major McKinley said he did not know, but that the manufacturers said they needed it, and he put it on. Henderson very properly told him he should not vote for it, and moved to strike it out. We cannot expect to win with the people so long as we go in to a fight with a manufacturers' tariff bill.

Mr. Reed's prominent chairmen seem to have suffered most. Among the chairmen appointed by Reed who will not be in the next congress are the following: McKinley, chairman of the ways and means committee; Cannon, chairman of the committee on appropriations; Rowell, chairman of the committee on contested elections; Baker, chairman of the committee on commerce; Farquhar, chairman of the committee on merchant marine; Cutcheon, chairman of the committee on military affairs; Perkins, chairman of the committee on Indian affairs; Struble, chairman of the committee on territories; Carter, chairman of the committee on mines and mining; Dunnell, chairman of the special committee on census; Morrill, chairman of the committee on invalid pensions; Thomas, chairman of the committee on war claims, etc., etc.

It is said by a few people that the republicans were beaten because the McKinley bill went into operation just before the election; that if it had gone into operation a month earlier, so that campaign speakers could have explained it, the result would have been different. Of course, it is impossible to tell what would have happened, if we had done things that it is now impossible to do. One may predict anything. But the fact remains, that the people expected that the tariff would be revised, for the purpose of reducing our revenues, so that there should be no surplus. It was understood that this was to be done, so as to decrease, rather than increase, the price of any of the necessities of life. But, when a tariff bill increases the price of so many articles of common use, it naturally and justly creates a great deal of apprehension. Unquestionably, either the prices of articles have been put up, or the public have been notified they would be put up on account of the McKinley bill when these articles are not at all affected by this bill. But people believe this, for the simple reason that it does put up the price of so many articles of common use. As a matter of fact, this bill should have decreased, rather than increased, the tax on articles of necessity. There was no occasion for any increase in any direction. The only time that the manufacturers of this country have been satisfied with a tariff and have not been clamoring for a higher, was in 1858, when the average tax was less than twenty per cent. The whole idea of the McKinley bill was wrong. It did not start out with the idea of relieving the burdens of the people as far as possible. Had it done so, there would be no such talk about the increase of prices because of this bill.

In Mr. Blaine's Philadelphia speech he made the following statement:

"I do not mean to imply, as a sentiment, that the result of the elections for congress—whether we lost it or whether we gain it—will in any great degree affect the republican party. I believe that from the presidency of Andrew Jackson, with one exception down to the time of Abraham Lincoln [cheers], [illegible] further, from the time of John Quincy Adams to Abraham Lincoln, with one exception, every administration lost the second congress."

We have been asked if this were true. Unfortunately we have no data back of the "Tribune" almanac, and that does not cover but a small portion of the period that Mr Blaine refers to. The Philadelphia Press gives the record from 18[illegible]. From this it appears that the rule given by Mr. Blaine is true with every administration, except that of President Taylor. The majority of congress were anti whig elected with Taylor, and therefore there was no change [illegible] years later when the anti whig congress was elected. But Mr. Blaine was fortunate in saying "down to the time of Abraham Lincoln," because the facts are all the other way since that date. Since then there have been seven administrations, and this is the eighth. In Lincoln's first and second administrations, in Grant's first administration and in Cleveland's administration the party in power elected the second congress. When Hayes was elected in 1876, the congress elected was democratic, and therefore when the democratic congress was elected in 1878 there was no change. In the seven administrations from Abraham Lincoln's first, down to the present one, there have been only two cases when a republican congress was elected with the president, and when the second congress was of an opposite political complexion. In those cases where the party in power did not elect the second congress there was no such revolution as occurred last Tuesday. In 1874 the congress elected 108 republicans to 168 democrats. In 1882, 119 republicans to 200 democrats, but in 1890 it stands [illegible] democrats to [illegible] republicans in the house.

Should Deposit $900

Colorado Springs, November [illegible], 1890.
To the Editor of the Gazette.

Will you have the kindness to decide the following to settle a dispute: A and B commence business as equal partners. When they quit the ledger shows A to have [illegible] $1800, and B $[illegible]. A contends that B should pay him $900 from his private funds. B claims that the $900 should be placed to the credit of the firm's bank account, which has not been divided. Which is correct?
X

In response to the above inquiry, it is quite clear that the $900 should be placed to the credit of the firm in the bank. Then each will have drawn $[illegible] and each will have a half interest in the assets of the firm.

Mineral Palace Meeting.

Pueblo, November 10.—At a meeting of the directory of the Colorado Mineral Palace company the following officers were elected: Donald Fletcher, president; George H. Hobson, vice president; O. H. P. Baxter, treasurer; John Livesey, secretary; executive committee, George H. Hobson, chairman, O. H. P. Baxter, C. L. Hill, Ferd Barndollar and J. H. Guggenheim. It was the sense of the meeting that no matter how much work it required, the Colorado Mineral palace would be made a success and be an honor to the Centennial state. The following resolution was passed unanimously:

Whereas, As the newspapers of Colorado have generously assisted the Colorado mineral palace in giving the enterprise attention and endorsement in their columns,

Resolved, That the directors in session wish to return their sincere thanks for past kindnesses and ask a continuance of the same, as the palace must be success and without the aid of the newspapers such a result would be impossible.

Ex Governor Alva Adams, Treasurer elect James N. Carlile and Hon. C. C. Davis of the Leadville Herald-Democrat, visited the Colorado Mineral Palace today and unanimously voted it the most magnificently decorated building they had ever seen on this continent. These well known gentlemen say that no matter if it costs the state of Colorado one million dollars to complete this grand undertaking, that it would return a thousand fold for every cent expended.

An Indian's Charges

New York, November 10.—"Painted Horse," one of the Indians from the Red Cloud agency with Dr. Carver's show in Europe, arrived here Saturday. To day he made a long written statement. He charged both Dr. Carver and Buffalo Bill with great cruelty toward the Indians under their charge. Painted Horse said he was repeatedly tied up until he could no further suffering endure, that he was fed upon "stinking meat" and other things wholly unfit for food, that his money was taken from him and when he asked its return received only $5. He said the other Indians were also shamefully treated and frequently fired upon and badly wounded. They were permitted to have all the whiskey they wanted, and when under its influence often fought among themselves.

Union Pacific Affairs.

Boston, November 10.—President Adams of the Union Pacific says: "There is no foundation for the report that the Union Pacific Northwestern alliance is broken, at least not while I am president." The Union Pacific, he says, has no floating debt to cause it any trouble. Construction of the Portland & Puget Sound railway has been provided for independently of the Union Pacific and an announcement concerning this will be made soon. The Union Pacific, Denver & Gulf has no floating debt, except a minor matter of some old coupons for which its bonds will issue to the Union Pacific.

A Horrible Accident.

Philadelphia, November 10.—Mr. Alexander Hexter, senior member of the firm of Hexter & Bros., clothing manufacturers, 432 Market street, met his death in a horrible manner this afternoon at the above place. At 2:45 o'clock this afternoon the unfortunate man who had been working on the first floor started to go to the fourth floor on the elevator, which was partly loaded with a lot of unfinished clothing. While the elevator was passing from the second to the third floor he stooped over to speak to an employe and before he could escape his head was caught between the elevator and the ceiling. Complete decapitation followed.

Galveston's Celebration.

Denver, November 10.—A great deal of interest is being taken in the deep water celebration to occur at Galveston on November [illegible]. The railroad companies have agreed to a round trip rate from Denver and all parts of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Kansas and Texas to Galveston, to be present at the greatest event which has occurred in that city in its history. Tickets will be sold to join the [illegible] leaving Denver on November 17 and 18. Fully [illegible] Denverites are preparing to attend.

Nothing to Levy on

New York, November 10.—[illegible] has returned unsatisfied the execution and three judgments aggregating [illegible] obtained against the Duchess of Marlborough last week. The duchess has no property here and the income from the estate of her late husband cannot be levied upon.

Oklahoma's Capital

Guthrie, Okla., November 10.—The legislature to day passed the bill locating the territorial capital at Kingfisher. The bill now goes to the governor, who has five days in which to either approve or veto it. It is generally believed he will veto it.

CHARITY ORGANIZATION.

The Subject Discussed at Grace Church by Rev. A. R. Kieffer.

The subject of A. R. Kieffer's discourse, which was attentively listened to by a full congregation Sunday morning, was "Charity." The speaker took his text from Micah vi. 8: "He hath showed thee O man what is good, and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with God." He said: George Eliot had a very profound insight into the human heart, the insight of genius, and in one of her well known essays she accuses Christians of what she called other worldliness. This is a common charge also in the sermons of Mr. Frothingham. W. Christians are accusing "a great many persons of "this worldliness" and she said we were guilty of "other worldliness," i. e., we were so much absorbed in our personal salvation and in efforts to secure he personal salvation of others, that we neglected a great many of our human and earthly duties. The charge is great y exaggerated but there is enough truth in it to cause us to diligently exam ne ourselves—and the church at large nd if possible clear ourselves individual y of any such accusation. Christianity as the closest possible relation with the resent world. Its purpose is not only to repare men for heaven, but pre eminent y to renew and regenerate the whole arth, and to make it a fit dwelling place or a race of happy creatures. The ast book of the Bible ends with a de cription of a new earth, wherein dwell th justice but many Christian profes ors have neglected, and do neglect, this m, and act as though religion were a ing absolutely remote from ordinary uman interests. I am more and more mpressed every day with the extreme ncompleteness with which we, as indi iduals, have as yet absorbed the teach g of Christ or understood the ideal of ciety and manhood and woman ood that he revealed. It is to this we ould lend our utmost efforts—to real e in ourselves, we religious people I ean, to realize in our minds and lives hat Christ's principles are and the ame of society would not then be the ilure that it now is. It might and ould be glorified into the very body d temple of Christ."

He then asked in what respect were our eals and standards conspicuously un ristian; and said, in answer, that he ared that they had been making things ry complex, while God had been iving to make them single. The text as spoken to men who made religion, did many to-day, consist of mere ms of worship. Too often we forgot t listening to chants and prayers was t the end but the means.

Israel had been taught the meaning of ustice" by institutions like the jubilee ar by which were periodically rectified wrongs of complicated society. ery fiftieth year every slave was set e, every debtor released, every man o from misfortune or his own fault sunk below the level of his follow n was given a fresh start in life. Then land was redistributed among the ple. Consideration for the poor was ght by ordinances like those which bade a second going over of the vines grain fields and so capitalists were wn that they had no right to all they ld get. These laws, he said, were heritage—while we can add to them lofty teachings of the new dispensa n.

Christians, he said, should see more arly than some of them do how these istian duties of ours should reveal mselves in our own times and circum ces. In the relations between capital labor, he asked, was all as it should and if not, had religious men no re nsibility? Many perceive that all is right, but while thousands say mebody should do something," only and there one says "I must do some g, and God helping me I will." If y member of the church would so e on that, this world's future would brightened from this moment. God ires of men that they do justly. Do stians? If the shining structure of civilization, like an old Mexican ple, could be built only upon a layer ving men, he said, it would topple in ruins when they began to rise. hs and Vandals did not play their for the last time when they broke ancient civilization. They were g bred now, not on the steppes of , but in the slums and alleys of great s. In the great ground swell of anity, above the dull, hoarse roar, d be heard the prelude of the coming l wave.

he only help and only remedy, the ker insisted, lay in lives of earnest rt and duty to humanity. We must justly and mercifully. To do justly to do as right required and to do cifully was to do as love required. ciful kindness was not so infrequent cynics supposed, the only trouble g that so much is wasted in hap ard, unsystematic ways irregular indiscriminate almsgiving. There a vast amount of it which could r be estimated and which was not suspected. Doubtless the best in mentality for those who cannot give onal effort to the alleviation of dis s was what was known as the Asso n of Organized Charities. The ker went on to give some account he organization and present workings his institution in this country and in land. He told of the difficulties it to meet with if it was to be a suc and further detailed some of the rs made as to the deficiencies of the m. Edward Everett Hale, he said, suggested as the only effective means eting destitution a sort of "moral made up of all the clergy of the but the speaker thought that this was valueless, for he said that of all to do such work the most worthless the clergymen, as easily deceived entrapped by the unworthy, and be already so burdened with their own and destitute that they hardly knew h way to turn. While organized ities were necessary and the evils of present social system were so palpa that there should immediately be an nization here, it was also needful, said, to guard against the evils to h the new system is peculiarly lia so that in no case ought an agency needlessly substituted for a "per l relief, personally bestowed."

he pastor closed his discourse by ng "Yield yourselves up to God the t lover, and as a loving sacrifice, other sacrifice will follow. Love with all your heart and you will your neighbor as yourself. Walk humbly with Him and ye will walk justly and kindly among your neighbors. Yes, walk humbly with Him for you are a sinner [illegible] mercy than the worst of those about you. Your walk humbly with Him for you are only His steward and must account. [illegible] nothing you have is absolutely your own. [illegible] walk with Him [illegible] pleasing [illegible] walk in deeds of justice and kindness, never sliding, never standing still, [illegible] the course marked out by the footsteps of the master."

The People vs. Elmer Rose, grand larceny. Defendant arraigned and pleads not guilty. H. H. Artz appointed to defend. Set for trial to-day at 9 a. m.

The People vs. E. W. Osborne, larceny as bailee. Defendant arraigned and pleads not guilty. Wm. Mitchell, of Pueblo, and Ed Hanna will defend. Set for trial November 12 at 9 a. m.

The People vs. David C. Weaver. Mr. Lewis made an application for continuance for the term on behalf of the defendant, alleging the absence of material witnesses. The application was opposed by the prosecution, and the court finally postponed the case until this morning at 9 30. Judge Colburn will assist in the prosecution of this case, having been retained by the Humane society.

A recess was taken for a short time, and the court announced a rule that no smoking would be allowed in the court room during intermissions or at any time. This will, in a slight degree, purify the foul air in the old rookery called a court house, and make it possible for officers and litigants to sit out a day without experiencing quite as severe headaches as heretofore.

At 11 o'clock the grand jury presented five indictments, four of them being against Charles M. Lowe for grand larceny and embezzlement. The other was against Elmer Carlyle for burglary and grand larceny.

The people vs. Elmer Carlyle. Burglary and larceny. Defendant arraigned and pleads not guilty. Mr. Sabin was appointed by the court to defend. Set for trial November 12, at 9 o'clock.

The people vs. Charles M. Lowe. Defendant arraigned on four charges of grand larceny and embezzlement from the Pacific Express company, and pleads not guilty to each.

The following names were reported by the sheriff as summoned to complete the petit jury panel: Wm. Hebard, J. H. Shumate, G. R. Fowler, T. J. Callaway, J. A. Doubleday, C. M. Cranson, F. A. Young, R. R. Taylor, M. A. Connors, C. L. Gillingham, Frank Lyon, F. F. Dennis, C. S. Kitner and Arthur Peck.

C. E. Sabin and R. R. Taylor were excused on good showing from service on the petit jury.

The People vs. W. S. Cole and J. S. Johnson, grand larceny. Mr. Brinson was appointed to defend. Mr. Mitchell, their attorney from Pueblo, not appearing. Set for trial November 12 at 9 a. m.

The People vs. Charles W. McKee, grand larceny. Defendant withdraws his plea of not guilty and enters one of guilty. Remanded for sentence.

A recess was taken until 2 p. m.

The grand jury returned two indictments against Peter and Wm. O'Brien, the men who made the assaults on Nicewender and Bloodworth on Friday last. They also indicted Henry Saxton for larceny, and Daniel B. Vermilye for obtaining money on false pretenses. Two not true bills were returned.

Court adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

Brutally Assaulted.

The account of a serious trouble near Manitou on Friday last is taken from the Colorado City Chieftain. Inquiries concerning the matter at Colorado City on Saturday brought the information that the case was only a disturbance of the peace, but since that time Nicewinder has grown dangerously ill from his injuries, the two assailants whose names are John and William O'Brien, have been turned over to the county authorities and the facts will be investigated by the grand jury. Following is the item referred to:

At eight o'clock last night, at the camp of C. Shell, on the Manitou and Colorado Springs boulevard, there was great excitement, created by the sudden entrance of two large rough looking men who, without any apparent cause, began beating the inmates of the tent with a club and shovel with which the two toughs were armed. They are known among the Pike's Peak workmen as Big Red and Jumbo. Mr. Nicewinder was beaten into insensibility by the wretches; also Mr. Ed Bloodworth received a share. Mr. and Mrs. Shell were knocked down and severely beaten. Nicewinder was chopped in the face with the shovel, and as we go to press was examined by Dr. Bristo, who says the wounds are serious, but not necessarily dangerous. The two villains were taken in about 12 o'clock, midnight, and are now in the city jail.

[illegible] at Denver.

D[illegible] The general assembly of the Knights of Labor will meet in this city [illegible] to-morrow [illegible] o'clock. There are already in the city one hundred of delegates, and one hundred more are expected to arrive to-night and to-morrow morning. Among [illegible] prominent knights [illegible] Master [illegible] Powderly, A. W. W[illegible] Canada, and M. J. Wheat[illegible] There will be about [illegible] assemblies in the United States and Canada.

[illegible] Mr. Powderly will deliver an [illegible] subject "The Labor Situation of the Day" [illegible] speak to one of the [illegible] audiences assembled here [illegible] A large amount of business is to be transacted before the session [illegible] which is the election of officers for the next two years. The session will be in session about two weeks and the business will be transacted with closed doors.

Denver, November 10.—At the meeting of the [illegible] this evening where [illegible] were present Mr. Powderly spoke of the unity of the Knights of Labor with the Farmers' Alliance, a combine which he predicted would be the means of effecting many legislative reforms in the near future. Referring to the strike on the New York Central, he denounced in strong terms the censure given the Knights of Labor by the press, attributing it to the influence and bribery of the railroad, and affirmed that all attempts at a solution of the trouble on the part of the executive officers of the Knights of Labor were ignored. He was enthusiastic in his representations of the growing power of the Knights.

The Denver Man Confident.

New York, November 10.—Ed Smith, the Denver boxer, arrived here from Providence in company with William Muldoon, Jake Kilrain and Jack Ashton yesterday afternoon. Smith is a perfect picture of health and is confident that he can outpoint Geo. Godfrey, of Boston, with whom he is to box with five ounce gloves at the Puritan Athletic club's new theatre in Long Island City to-morrow night. Muldoon is quoted as having said that he would bet $1000 on Smith, and it looks now as though the Denver man would be the favorite. Godfrey arrived here from Boston last night with his backer, Billy Mahoney, and several friends. "I have trained hard for this contest," he said, "and I think I can win. I'll do my best at any rate." The directors of the club have pledged themselves to the sheriff of Queens county that no law will be violated.

Governor Campbell Seriously Ill.

Chicago, November 10.—A special from Columbus, O., says: Governor Campbell is so seriously ill that visitors have been forbidden. He is now threatened with typhoid fever, and it is doubtful if he will be sufficiently recovered to attend the Thurman banquet Thursday evening.

The rector of Grace church requests the members of the Woman's auxiliary to meet at the rectory this afternoon at half past two o'clock, to elect delegates to the convocation to be held in Pueblo next week, to arrange for the annual Thanksgiving missionary box, and not forget to bring their annual dues with them.

F. E. Griswold yesterday afternoon moved his stock of boots and shoes into Mrs. Rowe's building on N. Tejon street, next to the Bennett block. The Denver Society Civil Engineers and Architects will hold its next meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building, Denver, evening of November 13, 1890. General R. B. On Thursday afternoon and evening of this week a fair will be held in the vacant store in the Midland block, next to the Elk hotel, at which time the public will be given an opportunity to purchase many useful and ornamental articles suitable for Christmas presents. Lunch will also be served from 12 to 2 o'clock, and supper from 6 to 8. Among [illegible] there will be: The [illegible] pandean singers; the feast of [illegible] the gorgeous island of palms, [illegible] Good Fortune; the port of [illegible]; the bridal bower, glorious translation of Enoch Arden.
